Hello,

If you have a decent WRL USA Call sign map let me know price and conditions. Send to my e-mail address not to the list.

I'm interested in anything related to the Supreme Electronics company of Upland PA, makers of a six meter SSB transmitter in the early 60s.??? Not the Supreme test equipment company which was much earlier, and in Mississippi.

Thanks and 73,

Bob,

I remember both firms. The one in Greenwood, Mississippi was bought by Swan Electronics during WW II. Swan was a major electronics distributor for years. Supreme in PA was bought by Ed Clegg. Not sure if many of the 6 meter units were sold in light of the Clegg Venus and Gonset 6 SSB unit.

whazzit? SSB converter? FM converter?

<https://www.ebay.com/itm/324569910195>
Has plugs on the back for SP-600 and TCS receivers.
Noise Input???

Not mine, no relation, etc., just interesting....

The line cord would be a suicide cord, given that it would have an octal
PLUG on the equipment end.

Completely blind guess is an SSB adapter.

Amen on the AC plug!

The center tune and ?Disc? label led to my guess about FM. But then there?s BFO, etc....

All,

Need a copy of the schematic for my BC1206D LF Radio.

Any help is appreciated.

There is a BC-1206 schematic in the "Surplus Schematics Handbook" by K Grayson, published by Cowan Publishing (CQ magazine).

No mention of a 1206D.

I have seen lots of 1206 stuff but I need the ?D? data as it is quite different from the prior models.

Thanks for your note.
